Care & Maintenance

Fireclay

Care & Maintenance Instructions

- The cleaning and care of a fireclay farmhouse sink is easy and low maintenance
- Fireclay is both stain resistant and rust proof (because it doesn't contain metal) so food that typically stain can simply be wiped away.
- Clean the sink on a regular basis with mild cleaner and a soft cloth or non-abrasive sponge, then rinse with water.
* If you have hard water you can dry your sink with a cloth to prevent water spotting.
- Stuck on food can be soaked to loosen and lightly scrubbed with a cloth. Baking Soda can be used to help.
- In rare instances you may get a surface stain, but with effort along with Soft Scrub, or a Scotchbright Sponge it should bring it back to looking new.
- Periodic waxing (carnauba wax) can also be used as a preventative/further protective coating and facilitate faster draining.

If you have further questions about taking care of your sink or have a particularly tough stain, feel free to contact us and we will be happy to help.
